

Good morning, we would like to inform you that, among the patents in our portfolio there is a patent on a new assault rifle, which, instead of having 30-round magazines like those currently used, has a 200 or 250-round magazine, depending on the caliber, positioned around the barrel of the rifle. The patent was granted in 2015 and we have not yet started a marketing operation as we are busy on other fronts.

Then the loader with a simple movement of the hand puts a group of bullets into firing position.

Since this patent has a different market from the others in our portfolio, we would be willing to give you all the documentation at the price of nine thousand + VAT (9000/00 + VAT).

The documentation includes the observations of the European Patent Office of Munich, our responses and the text of the granted patent. Once the agreement has been reached we proceed with the assignment of the patents according to Italian laws.

All the best
